

Common snow

The snow was just beginning to fall when this picture was taken about midnight on Monday. The scene looks across Wilmington common to the Swain School. The shot was taken at f 3.5 at a 3 second exposure with a Konica T4 on a tripod, with a 35 mm. lens.

Early storm snarls motorists

Winter made an early start on Tuesday morning, with a six and a half inch snowstorm that caught motorists unprepared.

When many people set off to work, not only did they have no snow tires, but they found their streets unplowed as well.

Wilmington Highway Supt. Bob Palmer said that there was a combination of reasons for the storm. He said that none of them had anything to do with Proposition 2½.

"My job is to do the best we can with what we have," he said.

Palmer said that he called his crews in at midnight to start sanding after he received a call from the police department at 11:15 p.m. notifying him that the snow had begun. The snow, he said, was light for the first few hours. There wasn't plowable snow until 4:20 a.m. The heaviest part of the storm was between 4 and 7 a.m.

"If the heavy snow had been from 10 to midnight, we would have had the streets clean by morning," he said. Instead, just as the heavy snow was ending, people were trying to set off for work.

In many areas, such as Andover Street north of Route 125, stuck cars blocked the snow plows. Palmer said that many drivers just locked their cars and walked away.

Another problem was that some of the contractors who plow streets weren't ready for the storm. Palmer was quick to defend them, noting that at this time of year, the contractors are still trying to work their construction contracts. "They do a good job for us," he said.

Wilmington streets were in relatively good condition compared to other areas, Palmer said. He noted that Route 125, which is plowed by contractors hired by the state, was not even plowed until 11 or 12 in the morning.

Palmer said that the storm was the earliest plowable snow since he had been on the highway department. He said that one early storm about 12 years ago had been snow on the west side of town and rain on the east side.

Separate school for problem students?

Wilmington school officials are currently exploring the possibility of opening up a separate school for students with discipline problems, as an alternative to the system's present suspension program.

The feasibility study, a suggestion of School Committeeman James Demos, received a unanimous vote of approval by School Committee members at their meeting with high school administrators last week.

The meeting was the first of several to take place between the School Committee and school administrators at various Wilmington schools to discuss the status of discipline in public schools.

At an earlier meeting, School Committeewoman Linda McMenimen took issue with the high school's present policy of disciplining students by suspending them from school for three days. "Giving them three days off from school is like giving them a vacation," she said.

Demos told the Committee he would like to see the alternative school set up "in a high school setting" but in a separate building and would like its faculty to emphasize "attitude, attendance and academics" until specific objectives are met. Such a school, he insisted, would actually be less expensive in the long run than the present situation which has teachers, counselors and administrators spending much of their time disciplining and attending to the needs of a small group of repeat offenders.

In agreement with him was McMenimen. "This board has gone on record. The character of this board is strict discipline codes," she said. "We're tired of the good kids suffering for what the bad kids do."

New policies to deal with class cutting and tardiness have cut down substantially on both those problems, however, Assistant High School Principal John Lynch pointed out. This year students who cut classes are suspended for a first offense and a parent must meet with high school administrators before the student can return to school. Second and third offenses require both parents to attend a conference and a fourth offense is referred to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Walter Pierce.

Suspensions are up. Last year there was a total of 272 suspensions for the entire year. This year, Lynch said, there have been 148 suspensions to date in the first two and a half months of the 1980-81 school year.

But class cutting is down. "Everyone is very pleased with this system. Kids just aren't cutting their classes anymore," commented one faculty member. "The difference this year is just tremendous."

Lynch said he has also seen a dramatic improvement in the number of physical education failures, down to 65 so far this year from a high of 378 for the nine months of the 1977-78 school year. Academic failures have also shown the same trend, Lynch said.

High School Principal Dr. George Eisenberg said he believed that some of the improvement in physical education grades could be attributed to a change in the grading system used, along with changes in curriculum and class sizes.

"Before this, if you showed up, you passed," Eisenberg said. Now, he explained, skill, effort, preparation for class and regular tests comprise part of the physical education grade. While it is still a pass or fail grade, a numerical grade is given in the comment section of the report card, and students, Eisenberg said, have been asking teachers how they can improve their grades.

"Maybe next year we will ask to change to a numerical grade,"

Eisenberg said. Eisenberg told the Committee that a central file that is now being maintained on students who are discipline problems has identified a high risk population.

"Students who received more than six detentions or more than two suspensions tend to drop out of school 50 percent more than others," Eisenberg said.

He told the Committee the high school had recently applied for a federal grant to fund, through the Juvenile Justice Administration, an evening suspension program which would provide counseling for repeat offenders and their families.

Other actions the high school has taken to tighten up discipline include: increasing the minimum number of credits a student may carry from 25 to 27; installing individual locks on lockers for a refundable deposit of $2.50 per student and eliminating a student parking area and expanding the outside smoking area.

Another method of discouraging excessive absences was suggested by Pierce.

"We can evoke Chapter 766, Section two, and bring parents to court if their child is absent for seven sessions in any six month period," he said. Such a measure could carry a fine of $20. "Parents are responsible for these children," Pierce said. He added that should he have to evoke Chapter 766 more than twice, he would file a complaint of child neglect with the state.

"I know it's not a total solution, but it's one left open to us for youngsters over the age of 16 and we are going to utilize this," Pierce said.

Part of the job

When snow plow driver Joe Duggan was clearing Harnden Street on Tuesday morning, his way was blocked by a Chevrolet driven by Mrs. Arlene Hoon. Her car was halfway out of the driveway. Duggan and his helper gave her a push, and resumed their plowing.

'My Fair Lady' continues this weekend

The Wilmington Spotlighters went Broadway last weekend with a polished, professional caliber production of the all-time favorite musical "My Fair Lady."

The show is scheduled to be reviewed on the professional circuit this spring when it will highlight the opening of a new theater in Boston. But the Spotlighters' show is here now, and every bit as well worth seeing and without any of the hassle with traffic and the "T."

The Spotlighters were generally disappointed with ticket sales last week. The sell-out that was hoped for, and indeed needed, to meet the show's $5,000 budget, never materialized. "My Fair Lady" will run two more evenings, this Friday and Saturday, November 21 and 22, at Wilmington High School Auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

It features elaborate costuming, full orchestration and a unique two-story revolving set. A striking number is the "Ascotte Gavotte" done in startling black and white with a chorus of nearly 40.

Those who did attend last weekend loved the show. It received standing ovations both nights.

However, Spotlighter spokesperson Ann Whitney says she's worried that the Spotlighters may not be able to make ends meet.

"We've never lost money on a show before," said Whitney, who revealed that the Spotlighter treasury presently contains a whopping $14.

Whitney said they had been counting on a sell-out crowd to meet the remaining costs of the show but for the first time on the Spotlighters' history, she said, they may end up in the red.

Tickets, which will be on sale at the door both Friday and Saturday, are a reasonable $3 and $4.

"We want local people to be able to afford to come and bring their families," said Whitney.

Wind Riders seek members

Hang gliding is not for everyone. A group of ambitious people from the Wilmington area travel to the Groton ski area once or twice a month for hang gliding.

Organized under the name of Wind Riders, Inc., the group was organized by Warren Newhouse, who began by taking his sons, and soon had a large group.

Newhouse said the sport is not easy, but the rewards are beyond description. Besides meeting a different breed of people and just plain having fun, you will learn how to fly.

Participants must weigh at least 95 pounds. Boys, girls, men and women are all welcome. Information is available at 658-4673 or 657-5163.

Gypsy moth control - spray or paint?

Sixty years ago the towns of Mid-diesex County used to hire three or four men, every fall, to go around and paint out the egg masses of the gypsy moth caterpillar. Creosote was used to do the job. The men had small brushes, tied on the ends of long bamboo poles, and they would reach up into the trees, to get at the egg masses and paint them.

It was easy to see the egg masses, white or nearly so, against the dark bark of the trees. It was easy for the men, too, because some would have poles of about 10 feet in length, some about 20 feet in length, and one, if the length could be obtained, would have a 30 foot pole.

Eventually the gypsy moth disappeared, or nearly disappeared from the New England landscape, and the men with their long bamboo poles also disappeared.

Now the gypsy moth has reappeared. Last summer acres of oak trees, and other trees, had the leaves eaten by the caterpillar.

Some towns, and people, are talking of massive spraying programs, to kill off those caterpillars. Those spraying programs cost a lot of money. To spray a town like Wilmington (10,000 acres) would cost $75,000 and maybe $100,000. Tewksbury and Billerica would cost more, because more acreage is involved.

The old fashioned way, used half a century ago, is still best, according to some people who have studied the problem. Paint out the egg masses with creosote. Don't apply the creosote too liberally - just enough to get the egg mass.

Owners of trees in which egg masses may be seen can do it for themselves and perhaps save themselves a messy yard next summer. Creosote can be bought from local hardware stores. The stuff comes in gallon cans, and possibly some stores will sell creosote in quart jars.

That, a small brush, and a pole long enough to reach will kill the egg masses.

Don't just scratch off the egg masses, and then think you have solved the problem. The minute caterpillars, when they hatch, climb up the nearest tree and start eating.

Wilmington's tree warden, Tommy Sullivan, says spraying is not to be used. He prefers to paint out the egg masses, if he can.

In front of the town hall in Wilmington are two small flowering crab apple trees, planted by school children about 10 years ago. On one of those trees, plainly visible, are about 15 egg masses.

Tommy says that if there is sufficient interest he will arrange to have an egg painting party, to show how it is done. Somebody has to ask for it, and a time has to be set.

Tommy also is against spraying. The reason the gypsy moth caterpillar flourished last summer has to do with the weather, he says.

There is a virus which kills the caterpillar. That virus will flourish when the weather is damp. Wet weather at the proper time, says Tommy, means no caterpillars.

Last summer was dry. He is hoping for rain next summer.

What do you want in a doctor?

I am a family physician, new to this area, and have recently begun part-time practice in Tewksbury in association with Dr. Susan Black. This is my letter of introduction. Its purpose is two-fold; to acquaint you with my background, where I am coming from, what I am about, and more importantly, to introduce to an idea, the concept of family practice. The idea, itself, is not new; in fact, it's been around for years. It's just been buried amidst the spectacle of the last 50 years of medical and technological advancement. Buried so deeply that, at times, the medical profession as a whole seems to have forgotten that what's at the core of it all is people.

Through centuries of progress, people still tend to group themselves into families. The family, for some, may mean mom, dad and the kids; for others, it stretches to include grandparents, aunts, uncles, or cousins; while for others, it may not consist of blood relatives at all. No matter what the makeup, your family is the group of people who are closest to you, and who most influence your daily life. Trying to practice medicine without consideration of both you and your family's needs, values, and expectations, without "knowing you," is like trying to treat you in a test tube; the treatment itself may be fine, but you may not necessarily fit. Within this context, what the family physician tries to do is make use of all available resources, including the family itself, in providing you with high quality, continuous, and comprehensive health care.

To become a specialist in family practice, a doctor must first complete four years of college and four years of medical school. This is followed by a three-year residency in family practice, during which time he or she becomes well trained in six broad areas of medicine: pediatrics, internal medicine, obstetrics and gynecology, psychiatry, surgery, and family medicine. This gives the family physician the "know-how" necessary to handle more than 85 percent of the most common human illnesses and, equally important, the physician must pass an intensive, two-day examination given by the certifying board, the American Board of Family Practice. Even then the education is not complete, nor is it ever, for the family physician must be recertified every six years. This involves examinations, chart audits, plus the accumulation of 50 hours per year of continuing medical education credits. Family practice is the only specialty that requires this periodic recertification, thus assuring you that your physician is on top of the most recent advances in medical science.

Within this process, a virtual lifetime of learning, I have just recently finished my residency and have completed my Family Practice board - certification examinations this past July. Originally from Long Island, New York, I graduated from Tufts University in 1969 and went on to Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York City for my medical training. There, with the benefits of all the latest in medical research and top specialists as teachers, I was informed that to specialize in family practice was a waste of my education (talk about losing sight of what it's all about!). This has been the unfortunate attitude of many of the nation's top medical schools.

However, resisting the pressure to narrow my perspective, I chose to do my family practice specialty training at Hunterdon Medical Center in Flemington, New Jersey, a hospital and community that emphasized the central role of the family practitioner in health care. The Hunterdon System, while maintaining the highest standards of medical care, was such an economically sound and efficient system that it came to be known as the "Camelot" of health care in the prestigious New England Journal of Medicine. Having obtained the benefits from the best of both worlds - Mount Sinai's ivory-towered super-specialists and Hunterdon's family practice orientation - I have come to develop my own sense of what's important in the delivery of health care, and what Family Practice is and can be.

Just as a medical treatment must "fit" a particular patient, his family, and his whole set of circumstances in order to have the best outcome, it is the fit that is most important to the success of a doctor-patient relationship. Once you and your physician agree upon the degree to which you will be involved in your health care decisions, you know what you can expect from each other. This will naturally be different from person to person, but this aspect of the relationship needs to be made quite clear in order for both doctor and patient to be comfortable with and trust one another. No matter how good or well-trained the physician, he can be of little help without this atmosphere of mutual trust, understanding, and friendship. It is in this light that I look forward to serving the Tewksbury community.

Views On Dental Health

By RANDALL SMITH, D.D.S.

TIMING AND TOOTHBRUSHING

Does toothbrushing prevent a stimulating action on the tooth decay? One has to wonder because tooth decay is widespread despite the increased sale of toothbrushes and dentifrices.

There are reasons for this paradox. One is that the toothbrush is usually not used at the time when it could be the most effective. Acid formation on the tooth surface begins within moments after sugar has entered into the secluded areas and reaches a maximum of 15 to 30 minutes.

This is why the toothbrush should be used immediately after eating if it is going to exert its greatest effect in disrupting acid formation. Brushing teeth after getting up or before going to bed has a beneficial cosmetic effect and if the teeth cannot be brushed promptly after meals or snacks that have a high sugar content, rinse the mouth thoroughly with water. The flushing action can remove the soluble, fermentable sugar from the sheltered areas before the acid attack takes place.

Mrs. Webber's letter on family history

The Town Crier received the following letter from Mrs. George Webber last summer.

Dear Larz,

I read with interest the Town Crier of July 2, about the old houses in Wilmington, especially our home in the Maple Meadow Plain.

Now, there was another large stately, Colonial house in this area, which my uncle Will McIntosh owned. It was a large, two story house with an ell. It had an historical marker on it, which read "Flagg Place, 1720."

This house was situated on land where Hayden's Mica office is now located. The front of the house faced Butters Row. In those days, I presume, a lane ran from Butters Row up to the front entrance of the Flagg house; there was no Main Street at that time. Butters Row was the old county road from Boston and ended at the road, which is now called Lowell Street. That means Cross Street was part of the old county road.

The back door of the ell opened into a long driveway, which led to a very large barn, which my Uncle Will used as a storage place for hay, wagons and other farming equipment.

Main Street, as we know it today, did not exist. The right of way from the Flagg place crossed my grandparents' property, Captain George W. McIntosh and Mary Ann McIntosh into Lowell Street, about opposite Mrs. Charles Williams' home of today.

A family by the name of Rose, owned the Flagg Place before Will McIntosh, acquired it. On July 4, 1922 or 23, vandals burned the house, and a year later the barn was destroyed.

Some time before the fire, a man from Cape Cod, offered to buy the mantle and the paneling in the livingroom, but my uncle would not sell it.

I have a brick door stop made from one of the fireplace bricks; it is English brick.

When I was a child, my uncles always referred to the land on Lowell Street from Laurel Avenue down to the Maple Meadow Brook as "the Plains." My uncles told about picking hops for 50 cents a day. I can remember picking hops along the stone wall in back of the Flagg place.

My uncles were Charles, Schamiel, George, John and Will McIntosh.

My maiden aunt was Sarah Ada McIntosh, who lived with with her mother and brother Will on the family homestead, on Main Street, which is now Colonial Plaza.

Aunt Sarah died from severe burns on May 21, 1921, while lighting the fire in the kitchen stove. She was taken to the Winchester Hospital by ambulance and lived only 12 hours. She sang the hymn "Nearer My God to Thee," all the time she was conscious.

This terrible accident happened one month before I graduated from Wilmington High School, June 1921.

My mother, Julia H.A. Crockett, wife of George S. Crockett, was considered by prominent Judge Frank McGuire, of Woburn, as the "smartest woman he ever knew," "she lived 30 years before her time." She bought and sold real estate; today, she would be known as a Real Estate Broker.

Julia H. A. Crockett died March 22, 1910, at her home, Main Street, Wilmington, formerly built and owned by Dr. Hiller and his wife, Mrs. Dr. Frances Hiller. The Hiller House is now a professional building owned by Alan Altman, at the rear of BayBank Middlesex.

Cordially yours,
George M.A.M. Webber
(Mrs. Stanley Webber)

The signatures on such petitions shall contain the names of at least ten voters in each of the precincts into which the town is divided for the purpose of electing town officers.

The blanks may be completed by printing or typewriting; they shall be addressed to the Board of Selectmen; they shall contain the names of the ten persons to whom they are issued and the grounds for recall as stated in the affidavit; they shall demand the election of a successor to the officer; they shall be dated and signed by the town clerk. The recall petitions shall be returned to the office of the town clerk within twenty days following the date they are issued, signed by at least ten percent of the total number of persons registered to vote as of the date of the most recent town election.

The town clerk shall, within twenty-four hours following such filing with him, submit the petitions to the board of registrars of voters which shall within five days thereafter, certify thereon the number of signatures which are the names of voters.

(c) Recall Elections - If the petitions shall be certified by the registrars of voters to be sufficient, the town clerk shall forthwith submit the same with his certificate to the Board of Selectmen. Upon its receipt of the certified petition the Board of Selectmen shall forthwith give notice, in writing, of said petition to the officer whose recall is sought. If said officer does not resign his office within five days following delivery of the said notice, the Board of Selectmen shall order a special election to be held not less than thirty-five nor more than sixty days after the date of the certification of the town clerk that the petition is sufficient.

If a vacancy occurs in the office after a recall election has been ordered, the election shall nevertheless proceed as provided in this section, but only the ballots for candidates need be counted.

(d) Nomination of Candidates - An officer whose recall is sought may not be a candidate to succeed himself in the event the vote on the question of recall is in the affirmative. Adjacent to each proposition shall be a place to vote for either of said propositions. After the said proposition shall appear the word 'candidates' and the names of candidates arranged as determined by a drawing by lot conducted by the town clerk which shall be open to the public, unless another arrangement is required by a general law. If a majority of the votes cast on the proposition is against the recall the votes for candidates need not be counted. If a majority of the votes cast is in favor of the recall the votes for candidates shall be counted and the candidate receiving the highest number of votes shall be declared elected.

(f) Officeholder - The incumbent shall continue to hold his office and to perform his duties until the recall election. If he is not then recalled he shall continue in office for the remainder of his unexpired term, subject to recall as provided in section (g) below.

If the officer is recalled he shall be deemed removed upon the certification of the election results. The candidate who receives the highest number of votes shall serve for the balance of the unexpired term.

(g) Request of Recall Petition - No recall petition shall be filed against an officer within six months after he takes office, or in the case of an officer subjected to a recall election and not recalled thereby, until at least six months after the election at which his recall was submitted to the voters, or do anything in relation thereto.

(Petition)

The Minutemen for - their ever ready support.

Most of all - the dedicated Wilmingtonians, who turned out with all of those small folks in all that wind to show them what Veterans Day is all about. (Too cold for the rest of this town's 18,000 people? Tch, tch.)

My hat's off, Wilmington. You did it!! You are "making it in (spite of) Massachusetts." It was a great day.

Larz ya!

Nancy Clark

Dear Larz:

Each week the Town Crier publishes letters on the housing controversy. Most of them are negative.

The Wilmington Housing Authority has kept quiet. It should perhaps have spoken up on some of the successes in public housing.

There is a successful program in North Andover which can be looked at and discussed. There are 90 families, and there are 230 elderly living in one neighborhood community. There is no conflict. It is a well run neighborhood.

This is no Columbia Point. It is an orderly place.

Because it is such a success the North Andover Housing Authority has started the ball rolling for two more such programs, to be federally funded.

Have you ever heard of a priority list?

A local housing authority can have a priority list, which means that it will take care of its own people in its own community first. This is what North Andover does, and it has been proven, in action. Everyone is happy.

There is a rule, however.

First you have to start building the housing, federally funded, before you can establish such a priority list.

A priority list, such as I describe, can be used for both family housing and for elderly housing. It is in charge of the local housing authority. And, I believe, we in the housing authority will be using just such a list.

Now to mention some other things.

Federal money is used in Wilmington for several purposes which never seem to become known to the public. I refer, for instance, to money to aid the elderly, in heating their homes. Last year $71,000 was given to Wilmington's senior citizens for just this purpose.

This year the goal is $100,000. No, it isn't the housing authority - it's the Council on Aging.

The Council on Aging cares for the elderly. They are appointed by the selectmen.

Do you know about Minuteman Home Care Corporation? You have, every week, a menu for elderly citizens, of meals provided by this corporation. There is also Home Health Care, Homemakers, Transportation and further services. The Wilmington Council on Aging is the agent.

We in Wilmington pay only $1,188 a year, for this service. We get, in return, about $90,000 in services, Federal and State funds.

Because the Wilmington Housing Authority applied for this federal aid, in public housing, other things have happened in Wilmington. The Housing Assistance Plan (HAP) is one of them. The Wilmington selectmen signed for this. They hope to get a $450,000 grant, to improve housing in the Silver Lake area.

There is also a HOP plan. I must confess I don't know much about it. It is supposed to have been signed for, by the selectmen. It is to be a federally funded grant for Wilmington, and to the best of my belief originated because of the previous actions of the Wilmington Housing Authority.

There are several hundred Wilmington residents, elderly, who need better housing. The Wilmington Housing Authority is trying to provide housing for these people. It is too bad that there are those who are trying to stop it.

Sincerely,
Lorraine Brozyna, member
Wilmington Housing Authority

Dear Larz:

I haven't laughed so much in a long time!

Could you possibly tell me why the people of Wilmington aren't jamming the attractive high school auditorium every night of the Spotlights' presentation of "My Fair Lady?" So much energy and fun and laughter, singing, dancing so good one wanted to get up in the aisle and join in - they don't know what they're missing!

Some people might ask why seen an "amateur" production when Rex Harrison in the same play will be in Boston soon. Well you add up the cost of gas to drive to Boston, the cost of parking, the very high cost of tickets, the ride home, maybe even the feeling you should dress up or even additional cost of dinner before the theatre. They you take the five minute drive to the high school, the relaxed atmosphere, the low cost ($3 and $4), the quick drive home and the good feeling of supporting local talent.

I don't know the cast, but about 25 persons doing several roles behind the scenes as well as acting, dancing, singing, sure do make a very enjoyable evening.

There's still a chance to see these amazing young people perform next week - Nov. 21 and 22.

Enthusiastically

Dear Larz:

During the past two weeks we've had occasion to speak with the Conservation Commission and the Board of Selectmen and even though they may not have agreed with everything we said, they allowed us to "state our case" and we ask as many questions as we wanted. We would like to take this opportunity to thank them for their courtesy and honesty.

We would also like to thank Demoulas Market for allowing us to circulate our petitions outside their store Saturday, November 8 and hope we didn't cause them any inconvenience.

A special thanks to the many townspeople who were so concerned about the welfare of our town that they stopped to listen even though it was terribly cold and rainy most of the day.

Dear Larz:

I have read an article in the Lowell Sun quoting Mr. Bob Cain as wanting to place the Wilmington Housing Authority Warrant Articles above the articles submitted by the Concerned Citizens of Wilmington for the town meeting.

Recall is wrong

Among the articles for the December 8 special town meeting in Wilmington is one seeking a recall petition process for elected town officials.

The idea is not a good one to begin with, and it is even worse when it comes from a group that is locked in a controversy. To create such a process would be like tossing a gun into an argument.

The proposed recall petition process does not restrict itself to public officials who may have been convicted of a crime. It gives no reasons for which an official may be removed from office. A public official could find himself on a recall ballot merely for having stood up for what he believes to be right - and that is wrong.

The recall process is being aimed at the members of the Wilmington Housing Authority, whose "Crime" seems to be that they have stuck up for what they believe in. They were

I'm afraid I don't agree with his line of reasoning.

As I understand it, this is the course of events in regard to the WHA proposals.

1. The WHA requested a town meeting to find out if the townspeople were in favor of elderly and low income housing.

2. The board of selectmen approved the town meeting.

3. The WHA submitted their articles, but neglected to mention anything regarding the low income housing as a part of the HUD package they were looking for.

4. The board cancelled the town meeting because they felt the articles could be misleading.

5. The WHA decided to seek a court ruling to allow them to build their project without the town's approval (Chapter 774)

6. The Concerned Citizens of Wilmington formed an organization and petitioned the townspeople for a town meeting in order to stop the WHA from building by asking that the proposed land be taken as conservation land.

7. The board of selectmen approved the town meeting as 700 signatures were produced in favor of the article.

8. The WHA requested that their articles (from the cancelled town meeting) be placed on the agenda with those petitioned for by the Concerned Citizens, although the WHA state they will not necessarily honor the decision of the voters.

9. The board of selectmen approved.

Yes, the townspeople have a right to vote on the WHA articles, but I don't agree that the WHA should be given top priority on a town meeting sponsored by the Concerned Citizens.

Thank you,
Elaine Tucker

Dear Larz:

If you receive a letter from any of the veterans' organizations commending the high school band for its participation in the Veterans' Day Parade, you don't need to print this letter.

However, considering the willingness and apparent relish with which Mr. Carrasco finds fault with the band, I would hope that he could be equally as quick to praise them when they were better represented than the organizations which he represents and which sponsored this mini parade.

Dog's death

People are shocked and outraged. More than 20 have responded with dollars and concern to a Town Crier announcement that a fund has been established to provide a reward for information leading to the arrest of a person or persons responsible for murdering a dog in one of the most despicable ways possible.

On Halloween night a group of young people in Wilmington put on a mask of friendship to entice a German Shepherd to a horribly painful death. After saturating the dog's coat with gasoline they set it on fire and watched it run into nearby woods to die in agony, terror and bewilderment at why its new "friends" did nothing to help.

When the dog's owner, a school-aged girl, came looking for her pet, the cowardly killers ran off as fast as their yellow legs would carry them. In few places in this world is there a trust greater than the trust dogs have given to human beings. To abuse that trust, to victimize the helpless, is the mark of the worst kind of cowardice and perversion. How have these sick, disturbed people been walking among us all this time without our knowing? Do their parents know what monsters they have raised?

One wonders how these cowards would react if they were to endure the same kind of suffering they so willingly provided for a helpless dog.

One wonders, too, how long it will take to release from the mind of a young girl the picture of her friend burning in the woods like a pile of trash.

People are the eyes and ears of the police force. To have information and not share it is as bad as committing the crime. This kind of horror cannot be allowed to go unpunished.

The reward for information has topped $150. Anonymity will be assured to anyone wishing to share information regarding this crime. Contact the Town Crier office - 658-2546.

Storm scene

Tuesday's snowstorm added a touch of beauty to Wilmington's landscape. The Papaliolios home, at the corner of Glen Road and Harnden Street, is an old Harnden house.

The eminent domain record

Selectman Rocco DePasquale, on November 6, meeting with the Wilmington Conservation Commission made a statement concerning the action of taking land by eminent domain, in Wilmington. DePasquale characterized that action as a losing one, for the town.

From 1972 to 1975 Wilmington in town meeting voted four times to take land by eminent domain. What is the record?

In 1972, the town voted to take by eminent domain land off Salem Street near the Wildcat Railroad, for the purpose of building a high school. The meeting was warned by Fred Corum that there was a lot of swampy land involved. Mr. Corum was one of the owners. By town vote, 91.543 acres of land were taken. The appropriation was for $75,000 by a bond issue.

The final cost was $97,634.47. That was $22,634.47 over the money voted. There were two takings in 1973, in a special town meeting on June 25. One was for the Harnden Tavern, which had been threatened with destruction by the then owner. The other was for land in Alderwood Estates, best described as being off West Street.

For the Harnden Tavern the appropriation was $45,000. The valuation was set at $43,697.00 and this sum was paid in a pro-rata payment to the owner shortly after the taking. He sued, and further recovered the sum of $75,012.20. The total cost to the town was $118,709.20. Alderwood Estates (land off West Street) came out better. The owners received the town's valuation, $28,459.69, in a pro-rata payment. They then sued and received $22,000.00 more. Other payments, engineering etc., came to $3,216.42, and the total was $53,210.10; $50,000 had been appropriated by the town meeting.

In 1975 the town appropriated

$169,000, to take by eminent domain land in the northern part of town, for a town forest. The town meeting was told that there might be some federal help, if the forest land was taken.

Twenty-five thousand dollars was subsequently received from the federal government, as a grant in aid.

Several pro-rata payments were made, and there have been several lawsuits since then. Not all the lawsuits have been settled as of this date, but the understanding is ultimate costs probably will not increase over a couple of thousand dollars.

Including the federal grant and the appropriation, $194,000 was available to pay for the land.

Not including the probable future payments of a couple of thousand dollars, the payments to date total $197,454.12.

The 34,000 square foot lagoon of dried lead arsenate in North Woburn has been covered with a layer of latex similar in nature to housepaint. The work was done last Thursday, Nov. 13.

Richard Chalpin, site coordinator for the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Engineering (DEQE) said the cost would be about $5,000. A water based latex and a dust suppressant were used to cover the "talcum like" soil to prevent any dust from blowing off the site. A snow fence is to be erected, to protect the area. A guard was kept on the site for the first 24 hours to keep the curious away, until the material in the cover had "set."

Ten high volume air monitoring stations were around the site during the covering operation to be certain that none of the material was disturbed during the covering process. Chalpin said that tests had been performed to insure that the latex cover would not complicate the problem.

He indicated that the state will try to recover the costs from the owner of the land, Mark Phillip Trust, through court action. The state is, he said, working on plans for a more permanent solution to the arsenic problem, as well as the problem being set by the chromium lagoon, and the piles of rotting hides.

A hearing had been scheduled for Nov. 12 before a U.S. District Judge. The purpose was to determine the financial status of the developer. It was postponed.

The arsenic and lead were not dumped on the site by the developer. It is probable that they were left on the site during World War I, by the then owner, Merrimac Chemical Company.

Storm accident

A large front-end loader went out of control and demolished a pole on Woburn Street at Morse Avenue in Wilmington Tuesday afternoon. A telephone lineman had been working on the pole shortly before the accident, but had completed his work and was not on the pole when it was hit. Power was not interrupted by the accident. The loader was owned by Alfred Drinkwater.

Local companies participate in job fair

Two Wilmington companies - Compugraphic and Dynamics Research will participate in the third New England Career Job Fair, a unique job mart which matches professionals in high technology fields with leading regional and national companies. The fair will be held November 24-25 at the Northeast Trade Center. Hours for the fair are between 11 a.m. and 9 p.m. There is no charge for admission.

More than 50 companies will have representatives at the fair; previous shows have drawn between 3,500 and 4,000 computer and engineering professionals.

Begun three years ago by Business People, Inc., Minneapolis, the Career Job Fair has grown into a nationwide series of exhibitions in 14 major cities including Chicago, San Jose, Houston, Washington, D.C. and Philadelphia.

Unlike most other occupations, the high technology professions have been virtually recession proof; the demand for technical expertise continues to exceed the supply of engineers, data processors, and computer hardware and software specialists, according to Dave Aberman, president, Business People, Inc.

"Companies seeking engineering and computer personnel participate in the Career Job Fair to meet large numbers of potential employees at a nominal cost. Technical professionals who already have jobs find the fair an easy, no-pressure means of learning what opportunities are available to them at various companies," Aberman said.

Participating companies include: Advent, Cambridge, Ma.; American International Group, Manchester, N.H.; Analogic, Wakefield, Ma.; Analytical Systems Engineering, Burlington, Aquidreke Data Corporation, Newport, R.I.; Bunker Ramo, Trumbull, Ct.; Calma, Sunnyvale, Ca.; Comdata, Needham, Ma.; Compugraphic, Wilmington; Computervision, Bedford, Ma.; Comsat Lab, Clarksburg, Md.; Data Printer, Mulvin, Ma.; Digital Maynard, Ma.; Dynamics Research, Wilmington; Factory Mutual Electronics, Norwood; Fairchild Camera and Instrument, Latham, N.Y.; Federal Reserve Bank, Boston; Ford Aerospace, Willow Grove, Pa.; GCA Corporation, Bedford; Gould Modicon Division, Andover; High Voltage Engineering Corp., Burlington; Hybrid Systems Corp., Bedford; Input Output Computer Services, Waltham; Intercom Systems, Landover, Md.; ITT Avionics Division, Nutley, N.J.; Keane Associates, Inc., Manchester, N.H.; Knauer Computer Consultants, San Francisco; Lanier Business Products, Atlanta; Nixdorf Computer Corp., Burlington; Paradyne Corp., Largo, Fl.; Parker Brothers, Beverly, Racal-Milgo, Miami; Sanders Assoc., Inc., Nashua, N.H.; Signetics, Sunnyvale, Ca.; Simplex Time Recorder, Gardner, Ma.; Softech, Waltham; Sperry Univac, St. Paul, Minn.; Technical Aid Corp., Newton; Texas Instruments, Austin, Tx.; Tracor, Inc., Rockville, Md.; The Travelers Insurance Co., Hartford, Ct.; TRW, Redondo Beach, Ca.; Unitrode, Watertown; Wang Labs, Tewksbury; Wang, Lawrence and Lowell.

PUD zoning passes in North Reading

Planned Unit Development (PUD), a zoning concept that has never been accepted in Wilmington, has been voted in North Reading. The North Reading town meeting on October 23 voted by a "landslide," according to the North Reading Transcript, to rezone land owned by the Thompson Country Club, for condominium construction.

The vote was on paper ballot, called for by the opponents. The result was 343-88 in favor.

The Thompson Club, in the easterly part of North Reading, has been in financial difficulty and was reported to be facing bankruptcy. If the town meeting article had been defeated, the only alternative, it was said was sale of the entire 172 acre property to real estate developers, who would then convert it into single family house lots.

The vote of the North Reading town meeting enables the Planning Commission (board) of North Reading to allow construction of 172 housing units on the country club property. Those units will be mixed single houses and condominium units. They will be built along the fairways in such a manner as not to conflict with the playing areas of the golf course.

Selectman George Sandorfi was reported by the Transcript as expressing the sentiment of the meeting when he said:

"Single family construction is essentially a losing proposition for the town. They use more water, road services, and will put more children into our schools."

The architect for the proposed development told the town meeting that the maximum number of units to be built will be 172, of which 30 percent will be single family houses. The golf course will remain, he said.

The country club, established in 1962, will now be able to continue in business. The condominiums, when built, will return an estimated $365,000 in tax returns, according to one statement made in the North Reading town meeting.

Women have little to cheer

By Robert Walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Life as a female politician during the past decade has become distressingly similar to the enduring episode in the "Peanuts" comic strip in which Lucy promises to hold the football while Charlie Brown attempts a kick.

Apparently oblivious to Lucy's unbroken record of yanking the football away at the last second, Charlie remains hopelessly optimistic about her intentions as he charges toward the ball — only to be disappointed yet another time.

Women seeking public office are the Charlie Browns of modern American politics — always certain that the next election will produce a major breakthrough, invariably chagrined by the results yet convinced that one more determined effort will somehow lead to their long-denied success.

Notwithstanding the recent headlines proclaiming the election of a "record number" of women to seats in the House and Senate, this year's campaign provided little relief from a tradition of perennial mortification.

The claim of a record-breaking total of female members of Congress is technically correct, but a closer examination suggests that women don't have much to cheer about.

Although all 15 female incumbents who sought re-election to the House were successful, they will be joined next year by only four new women legislators, bringing the total for that chamber to 19 — a figure that merely ties the record set five years ago.

The new female House members are Bobbi Fiedler of California, Lynn Martin of Illinois, Marge Roukema of New Jersey and Claudine Schneider of Rhode Island.

The lone female incumbent in the Senate, Republican Nancy Landon Kassebaum of Kansas, isn't required to seek re-election until 1984. She will be joined next year, however, by Paula Hawkins, a newly elected Florida Republican.

That's the "record" — one more senator than currently and no more House members than in 1975. Women will comprise more than 50 percent of the nation's population but less than 5 percent of the House and only 2 percent of the Senate next year.

Even those numbers don't tell the full story because the worst-kept secret of the campaign to increase female representation in politics is that many of its leaders embrace a liberal philosophy and identify themselves with the Democratic Party.

All five of the women newly elected to Congress, however, are Republicans. Some are in the moderate-to-liberal category, but others are quite conservative.

Mrs. Hawkins, for example, is on the "wrong" side of two major issues that have become a litmus test for many feminists; she is in favor of amending the Constitution to prohibit abortions but opposed to the Equal Rights Amendment.

Leaders of feminist political organizations, notably the National Women's Political Caucus and the Women's Campaign Fund, had high hopes this year for approximately a dozen other women, all of whom were defeated at the polls.

That list included at least four Democrats in races where an "open" House seat meant they didn't have to run against an incumbent. They were Karen Burstein and Mary Ann Krupsak in New York, Lynn Cutler in Iowa and Polly Baca Barragan in Colorado.

Other unsuccessful Democratic women included Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., who gave up a House seat to seek election to the Senate, and House candidates Kathleen O'Reilly of Michigan, Norma Bork of California and Jeanette Reibman of Pennsylvania.

Numerous reasons are offered for their failure — their inability to buck this year's conservative tide, the insensitivity of many men who continue to dominate the political process and the demands of a system that requires the development of talent at the state and local levels before producing results in contests for congressional seats.

But the growing number of women who have become sophisticated practitioners of the political art know that explanations and excuses are no substitute for a substantial number of victories.

Students visit Bunker Hill Pavillion

Ninety-five students from the seventh and eighth grades of the West Intermediate School in Wilmington, recently visited the Bunker Hill Pavillion in Charlestown.

At the specially designed pavilion, the group saw the multi-media show "Whites of Their Eyes" which re-creates the Battle of Bunker Hill and the events immediately preceding it. The presentation uses seven channels of sound, 14 projection screens, 22 authentically dressed manequins, and a specially composed revolutionary-era ballad to surround the audience with the actual sights and sounds of the battle.

The students thoroughly enjoyed the show and the unusual audio visual effects. While in the Charlestown Navy Yard, the class also visited the U.S.S. Constitution and Museum, both located adjacent to the Pavillion. The teachers found this visit to be an excellent way of enhancing their students' curriculum on the U.S. history and the study of the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812. Many students enjoyed "Whites of Their Eyes" so much that they plan to return on another visit with their families.

Word processing - new Technology for Small Business is the focus of two week workshop beginning December 3, offered by the Institute for Small Business Concerns, Middlesex Community College, Bedford.

A representative of a word processing consulting team will conduct two morning sessions designed to familiarize the small business owner with the most advanced and comprehensive methods of solving information processing problems. The first session will discuss kinds of equipment available, costs, various business applications and multi-functional systems for word and data processing.

An overview of word processing technology and developmental background will be included in the introduction. The second session will provide demonstration of the equipment and how it works. It will emphasize what aspects of business can be improved by its use and discuss operator training and equipment maintenance. Participants will have the unique opportunity to examine data and word processing options and discuss their particular business needs to determine the best kind of equipment for specific application requirements.

Town Crier Sports

Field Hockey Tourney

One of the best bows out, 2-0

The team will be remembered as one of the best to ever play a sport that is confusing to many and entertaining to its most rabid followers who got more than their field hockey fill when they watched this high-caliber club in action.

Wilmington High School's perennially powerful field hockey girls (15-1-1) muscled defense and key-goaled their way to the Eastern Mass North Sectional Championship game Monday at Littleton and lost when Weston's Cindy Healey scored two goals in the game's final three minutes.

But coach Jan Cassidy's Cats didn't fade from the brink of a title with a whimper, as led by Janelle Fitch and a high scoring front line, the team had its scoring chances against a Weston club that at times played conservative hockey, keeping the ball away from Wilmington's main scoring threats.

Wilmington advanced to the finals with exciting victories over Lincoln Sudbury (1-0), Newburyport (2-0) and Danvers (1-0). After a shootout win following a scoreless double overtime, the Cats finally subdued Lincoln Sudbury. The team followed that heart-pounding win with a solid win over Newburyport and yet another nail-biter in the conquest of Danvers Saturday.

Against Danvers it was goalie Mary Beth Gentile who kept her team in the game when Danvers really applied some super pressure throughout the second half.

It was mainstay Miss Fitch who got the game winning goal that sent her team to the championship game, as she tipped home a shot by Megan Donnelly in the first half for the game's only score.

The Wilmington team featured the best that field hockey has to offer, with a high scoring offense (50 goals) and a stingy goaltender (Gentile) who permitted just five goals in 16 games until Monday's championship setback.

Opponents needn't hope that next season will be a rebuilding year for Wilmington. The Wildcats return Miss Gentile to the fold along with another excellent junior player in Robin Parsons. Coach Cassidy is approaching 90 wins as one of the most successful field hockey coaches in the state, and next season don't bet against Jan and her girls being back in the thick of a run at an Eastern Mass Championship.

Cherokee blank Apache

Coach Ed "Rodney" Blades earned a bucketful of respect after his team nipped coach Gus Larsen's Apache 6-0 in the windup of the Tewksbury In-Town Football League season for both teams November 8.

Cherokee quarterback Brian Kobelski scored the game's only touchdown on a 70 yard sweep. The defensive standouts for the winners were Billy Thurston, Toby Pritchard, Kobelski, and Steve Bergen.

Scott Blades turned in several outstanding blocks for the Cherokee backs and Danny Fiore played his fourth consecutive outstanding game for Blades' troops, who finished the season with a very respectable 4-5-1 slate.

An open letter to the TMHS soccer team

Players, not statistics are important

Sports editor's note: Tewksbury High School soccer coach Steve Levine has taken exception to some of the media's coverage of his team this season. In a telephone conversation last week, Levine pointed out however, that this criticism was not generally directed at the Town Crier, but the coverage of Tewksbury soccer in general. He makes some valid points in this open letter to his team that recently bowed out of the Eastern Mass Tourney with a 2-0 loss at Bedford.

An open letter to the Tewksbury varsity soccer team: You, the Tewksbury varsity soccer team finished the season at 10-5-2, in second place in the MVC West, with the second best goals against average in both leagues. Your wins and losses were all close, with an exception of one win, and your attitudes were the type that all people associate with a winner. The press you received was not outstanding, and many of your accomplishments were left unnoticed. The statistics above are just stats, and it is for this reason I am writing you, and those who care about you, this open letter.

I guess I as coach, should have taken even more time to write about you guys and give you and the sport added publicity, but I didn't. I know you guys know why, but I believe those who waited to read about us in the town newspapers should also know why they read and saw so little. Suffice to say, the articles I personally wrote at the beginning of the season were long-long enough to be edited beyond recognition. The reason they were long was due to the effort on my part to introduce you all, the entire 22-23 man team to the public on a game by game basis.

In a sport such as soccer, where newspapers usually can only find the room to print the name of the goal scorer and the goalkeeper - I could not continue to see all deserved participants not included in the articles. The townspeople know you exist and deserve to hear about you all - it's a missing aspect in sports media today. Many of your families see you play when they can, but not always can they understand the meaning of the team you are part of. When your team does well, people hear about it. When your team has its bad moments - many of the good moments while losing are lost if one was not there to personally see the game.

I, as coach, am constantly bombarded by individual criticism of several of my players. This criticism comes from many who wouldn't

Pee Wee B's bop Manchester, 4-1

The Wilmington Pee Wee B's (5-6-0), coached by Fred Stone, defeated Manchester 4-1 last week to highlight Youth Hockey League action.

Manchester scored at 5:26 of the second period to take a 1-0 lead. Then the B's went to work at 3:29, as Mike Piscatelli knotted the score 1-1 assisted by Eric Ouellette and Mark Marrazini. Tommy Pote got the go-ahead goal at 2:26 from Ray Mercuri.

At 11:38, Mark Marrazini scored from Joey Costabile and John Mytych. The final goal came with just 52 seconds left to play when Costabile made it 4-1 assisted by Sean Marsh.

Goalie John Gillis made several tough saves.

Cross country

The Tewksbury Memorial High School cross country team recently completed a fine boys cross country season with varsity wins over Austin Prep, Dracut, Westford and Andover for a 500 season. The losses were to Wilmington, Lowell, Chelmsford and Billerica. Most of the races were close, including several one point decisions.

Tewksbury also had some outstanding junior varsity athletes compete this past season. The Redmen topped Austin Prep 19-38, with Nick Romano (1), Phil Farr (2), Paul Tremblay (3), Tim Niven (5), Tom Springfield (8), Joe Bernardi (9), Dave Libby and Bill Dunlevy round-

Chuck Stokes assisted by Rick Kurowski and goals in both the first and second stanzas by Steve Bjork assisted by Mike Stuart, coach Paul Bjork's Wilmington II Pee Wees netted a 3-0 triumph Saturday at Janas Rink in Lowell.

Wilmington II overwhelmed Lowell with a relentless attack which by mid-game had a good Lowell I team (1-1-1) restricted to its own half of the ice. The score of the game could have been much higher had it not been for the Lowell goalie Gray, who made many great stops.

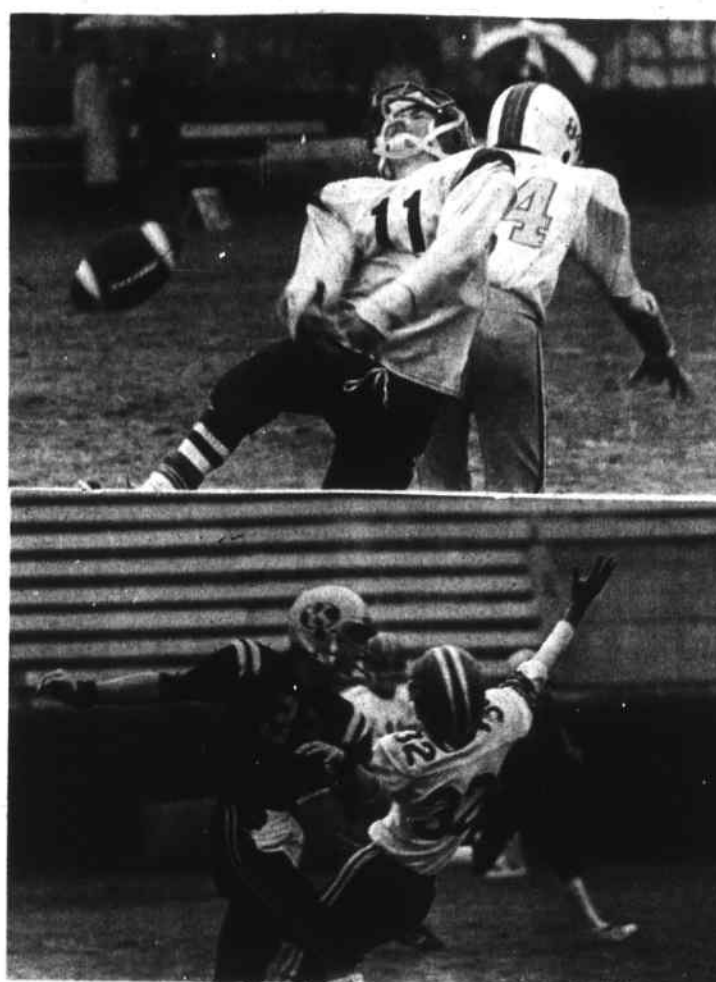

The Wilmington defense- Steve Lowry, Bill Gullage, Rich Kurowski, and Chris Sullivan- contributed to the fine two way performance by the entire team.

Excellent early goaltending on the part of netminder Derek Sencebaugh and a fine back-up job by Randy Jackson enabled Wilmington II and their goalie duo to record their first shutout of the young season. This victory now ups Wilmington II's record to 3-1.

Scoring by periods: First period, Wilmington II C. Stokes from R. Kurowski, S. Bjork from M. Stuart; second period, S. Bjork from M. Stuart; third period, no scoring.

Shots on goal - Wilmington II 35, Lowell 17.

Due to changes currently being made, information is not available at this time on the next scheduled game.

The Tewksbury harriers also topped Andover 27-30, with Nick Romano winning the event for coach Mike Daley. Phil Farr took second place. Other top places were grabbed by Tom Springfield (5), Paul Tremblay (7), and Joe Bernardi. Top junior varsity athletes this season included Mike Skidmore, Dan Emerson, Don Ellwood, John Ferreira and Bruce Cabral. Chris Kennedy, a sophomore, served as a manager-coach.

The Tewksbury Memorial High School cross country team posted a 27-30 win over Andover in recent boys varsity cross country action. Top varsity runners included: 1st- Nick Romano 16:48, 2nd-Phil Farr 16:48.5, 4th-Tom Springfield 17:19, 6th-Paul Tremblay 17:26, 14th-Joe Bernardi, 15th-Dave Libby, 16th-Kevin Barry,

Beware Redmen Wildcats gear up offense, belt Lowell, 18-0

Look out Tewksbury, the Wildcats are avoiding any semblance of their season-long problems in the fourth quarter, and more importantly, they're winning football games.

Wilmington trounced Lowell Saturday 18-0, and the score was not really indicative of just how well coach John Ritchie's revived (5-4-0) troops played.

For three weeks this season Wilmington's offense was stifled. Quarterback Glen Sargent had trouble throwing the football and his backs had their problems running with it. All that has changed with Wilmington gearing up for their annual semi-upset of Tewksbury with solid victories over Lawrence and Lowell.

Saturday at Cawley Stadium, the defense wouldn't be counted on to score the team's only touchdown as was the case a week ago in the defeat of Lawrence. Before that victory, the Cats had dropped consecutive shutouts to Chelmsford and Dracut, and it's safe to say that the offense wasn't exactly blowing opposing defenses off the field.

Suffice to say that the offense responded in rapid fire fashion at Lowell, scoring just 21 seconds into the game after senior running back Matt Phillips set the TD up with a 48 yard return of the opening kickoff to the Lowell 28.

Phillips and Mark Boudreau quickly covered the remaining 28 yards, with Boudreau sprinting in for the touchdown. Ed Olshaw's kick was wide, but the visitors made a quick and lasting impression on a Lowell team that would never be in the game.

After that first TD, the Cat defense got in tune with the offense and completely took control of the game, limiting Lowell to 59 yards total offense and sacking quarterback Dan Tighe eight times for 80 yards in losses.

Boudreau (seven yard run) and Craig Richards (four yard run) scored the other WHS touchdowns, both coming in the second quarter.

Particularly impressive were Wilmington defensive ends Ken Runge and Jeff Linehan. Mike Russo also played another super game for the Cats.

As was the case against Lawrence, Wilmington stacked its defensive front and wasn't afraid to send a linebacker or two on many occasions.

One of the keys against Tewksbury will be Wilmington's ability to put pressure on All-Conference quarterback Dennis Vecchi. If the past two weeks are any indication, the Cats are prepared to apply the heat come Thanksgiving.

Merciful Redmen ground Gryphons

Well, what did you expect? A good football game against a team that doesn't belong in the Merrimack Valley Conference? Tewksbury had all it could do to keep the score from being 60-0 at halftime, let alone the 43-0 final tally against the still winless and very-hapless Greater Lowell Gryphons at the Tyngsboro field Saturday.

While many of the Tewksbury football faithful were in Winston Salem, North Carolina watching their Pop Warner kids do battle, the varsity took on a team that would have difficulty making a game of it against several teams that competed in North Carolina's Sertoma Bowl Saturday.

Tewksbury coach Bob Aylward realized how ridiculous the situation was early, seeing that his first unit could score or at least break a long gainer every time it touched the football.

The Redmen jumped to a 36-0 halftime lead and that was with the backups playing for most of the second quarter. Tewksbury took a quick 2-0 first quarter edge when defensive end Tom Brothers sacked Gryphon quarterback Tony Conceicao on the endzone for a safety.

Tewksbury senior Tom Horgan then returned the ensuing free kick 66 yards for the TD and Charlie Santos toed the PAT for a fast 9-0 gap.

Junior back Frank Fay got in on the first quarter mauling when he latched on to a 57 yard scoring pass from quarterback Dennis (12 TD passes to lead Div II) Vecchi. Vecchi had set up this score with an interception at the Tewksbury 46.

A clipping penalty wiped out another Horgan touchdown run, but Tom came right back to score on an 11 yard run for yet another Redmen touchdown.

The score continued to balloon in the second quarter, with linebacker Steve Arpin intercepting a pass and returning it 34 yards for the TD; Fay scoring on a 44 yard punt return; and fullback Bob Byrd tallying on a 57 yard bolt up the middle. All this action coupled with Santos accurate PATS made it a whopping 36-0 at the half.

The final score came when backup quarterback Jeff Vecchi connected with Bob Leitch in the fourth quarter for a 61 yard pass-run TD.

The Redmen defense swarmed the Gryphons throughout the game, with Jeff Vecchi, Tony Rubico, Josh Hague and Jerry Giordano intercepting passes to give Tewksbury a total of six thefts from the game.

Sorry Scott

In last week's report on the Tewksbury soccer team, co-captain Scott Patterson's name was given as Patterson. The correct spelling is Patterson. Sorry about that Scott.

Raiders blanked Wildcat Chris MacInnis (45) helped lead a WHS defensive charge in Saturday's 18-0 win.

Charger squads wrap up regular seasons

The Wilmington Charger travelling teams closed out their regular season schedules Sunday with the A's and B's travelling to Everett, while the Charger C's journeyed to Lawrence to tackle the Lancer C squad.

Costly penalties hurt the A squad all afternoon, as evidenced by a second period drive that was cut short at the Everett eight yard line on a key turnover. The home team capitalized on each Charger miscue, as they exploded for three scores in the first, second and third quarters, enroute to a 20-0 victory.

The B's hooked up with the Everett Eagles in a tight defensive battle. However, penalties also proved to be costly to the Chargers, as a 35 yard touchdown run late in the first period was called back.

Everett finally got the break they were looking for late in the third quarter, when the Chargers attempted a pass deep in their own territory. The aerial was deflected at the line of scrimmage by an onrushing Eagle defender, intercepted and run in for the score from seven yards out.

The score held up, as both teams displayed strong defensive play for the remainder of the game, with Everett coming out on top, 6-0. Scott Velozo, Ed Sampson and Kevin Sutton were standouts on defense for the B squad.

The Charger C's battled back from a 6-0 first half deficit to mount a sustained third period drive that covered 54 yards. The 12 play drive was highlighted by the running of Charger fullback Steve Fuller behind the blocking of Bobby Cole, Eric Penttinen, Jeff Labossiere and Rich Donnelly, as they reeled off four first downs enroute to the score.

Fuller carried over from the one yard line to tie the score at 6-6 midway into the final period.

On the ensuing kickoff, Lawrence took over at their own 48 yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, Lawrence fumbled, with Charger linebacker Danny Duffy recovering the loose ball at the Wilmington 43.

With three minutes left in the game, the Chargers took to the air, but a Lancer linebacker picked off the aerial and raced 50 yards to paydirt to give Lawrence a hard fought 12-6 victory.

Wayne Poirier, Tom Pote, Duffy and Fuller played outstanding defense for the Charger C squad.

Chargers prep for N.Y. Bowl

The Charger A, B and C squads will travel to New York this weekend, November 22 and 23, to take on the East Chester Pop Warner squads in post season bowl games.

The three teams, along with the cheerleader squads, will leave Wilmington Saturday morning, November 22, and will return from New York on Sunday evening, November 23.

A Pop Warner Fund Raising Raffle is presently underway to help defray expenses for the upcoming bowl trip. First prize in the raffle drawing is $5,000, with a second prize drawing of $2,500. There are only a limited number of chances remaining, so all those interested in supporting the Pop Warner Bowl Game Fund-Raising Raffle are asked to call, 657-7010 for further information.

Wilmington Pop Warner President, Len Howard, along with the board of directors, urges all residents and friends of the Pop Warner Program to give their support in this most important fund raising raffle to help defray costs for the upcoming Bowl trip.

The raffle drawing will be held at halftime of the Wilmington - Tewksbury Thanksgiving Day football game.

The entire Wilmington Pop Warner organization would like to express its thanks to all of the friends of Pop Warner for their loyal support during the 1980 football season.

A new era begins

The Tewksbury varsity soccer team wrapped up its regular season schedule Nov. 5, with a 4-1 victory over Lawrence. The team record of 10-4 was the best conference record in the five year history of the program. The team also added another milestone, as it qualified for the Eastern Massachusetts Soccer State Tournament for the first time.

Although winning was a goal the entire team strived for, just making the most of what they had was all that was needed. No superstars, no one better than the next person, everyone dedicated to the success of the team.

Twenty-three players, with all of them being starters at one time or another.

Many of the players played several positions, and all of them found themselves to be the key player at one time or another during the season's 16 game schedule. Eighteen of 23 members of the team scored either by way of a goal or an assist this season, and all of the players on their own decided to abide by a stringent set of team rules which they enforced upon each other, adding to the development of an incredibly positive attitude.

What occurred during the season was excitement and tension - filled soccer games. Every game featured a different form of attack and defense, but most importantly, every game brought forth an increasingly knowledgeable following of spectators. Several games at the Tewksbury Junior High soccer pitch drew crowds of 300 or more, many of whom had no sons playing, but through the interest brought on by the recreational youth soccer program in town, went to see a sport which has grown at a phenomenal rate.

The boys who made up the team, to say the least, were personable. The seniors and co-captain Scott Patterson, a leader in the true sense of the word. Paul Morgan, the team's most controversial figure as well as the team's leading scorer, Stephen Vultaggio, the most versatile, he was valuable at any position he was asked to play. Mike Langlois, an intense player who was hampered by a knee injury and developed into one of the team's better forwards. Scott Chappel, playing his first varsity season after a year of JV, was a key to Tewksbury's midfield success. Dean Joyce, a real team player who combined skill with a tough under pressure coolness which was a key factor in the team's low goals against average. Rich DiGiorgio, injured before the season began, finally working his way into the starting lineup, only to be stricken by illness, but at all times never giving up. Finally, Scott Randall, who never played soccer until this year, making the team on determination and the desire to work hard.

The juniors and sophomores, all of whom contribute to an excellent nucleus for the 1981 season are: Co-captain, junior Mike Dascoli, juniors Gerry Horgan, Robert Busser, Richard DeMaria, Bruce Crochetiere, Scott Andrade, Steve Fink, Billy Perrin and Derek Vachon, and sophomores Danny Poulin, Tony Masone, Andy Fleury, Armando Dias, Bobby Green, and Mike Richard.

The regular season has ended, and a new era in Tewksbury soccer has started - an era of Eastern Mass. Towneys.

Letter from page nine criticize if they knew the real story behind the player and his actions. But without the proper media coverage, injustice is brought upon many individuals. The media usually doesn't have the space to talk about Scott Patterson's leadership on the field, or Paul Morgan's intense play, or Mike Dascoli's outstanding defensive plays, or what an assist means to a player like Scott Randall, or why Dean Joyce or Scott Chappel are constantly involved in the meat of the action, but rarely heard of in the media.

Guys, you're people, not statistics, and to be honest - until the media can take the time and space to replace bad news with more insightful stories concerning the positive aspects of sports, or whatever good type of publicity is possible, stories that people really do want to read about in a town paper, then I guess I will continue to shirk this aspect of my responsibility as a coach.

We were a real team - but many people, including your families, will never know why.

Steven Levine
Coach, TMHS Soccer

Trull Brook Golf

Dolan, Walsh Most Improved

Mrs. Paula Dolan of Wilmington and Junior Walsh of Tewksbury have been named the Most Improved Golfers of the Year at the Trull Brook Country Club in Tewksbury.

A handsome, personalized certificate from Golf Digest magazine, America's largest circulation golf publication, was presented to each of the winners by John Miller, pro shop manager.

The most improved honors are among golf's most highly prized individual awards. They were originated in 1956 by Golf Digest to recognize the male and female golfers around the country who improved their handicaps the most during the season.

Each year these amateur club players are cited, along with the most improved male and female professionals, in a special feature that appears in the January issue of Golf Digest.

Walsh, a former Tewksbury High School golf team member, came into his own in 1980. Among his accomplishments was a second place finish in the B-flight of the Greater Lowell Public Links.

Dolan, in only her second year of competitive golf, became a force to be reckoned with in the Trull Brook Thursday Women's League.

Wilmington police news

The Wilmington police log for the past week shows an upswing in activity, especially in criminal arrests which numbered 15 and protective custody detentions which numbered six. Only four accidents required investigation, but police cruisers checked out 25 burglar alarms. Eleven larcenies were reported, six disturbances were quelled and 14 incidents of vandalism were recorded.

Officers investigated four break and entries and received reports of four stolen cars. Wilmington or out-of-town police departments recovered four stolen cars from Wilmington. Seventeen incidents of suspicious activity were checked out along with five traffic complaints. Several trail bike complaints were logged, along with trespassing at the variety stores in North Wilmington and on Shawshen Avenue.

Tip of the week: Court Procedures: After a defendant appears in court for the first time (the arraignment) his case is usually continued for about two weeks to enable him to obtain an attorney, either his own, or a court appointed lawyer.

The next appearance by the defendant and his attorney is called "attorney's appearance and waiver." The waiver expression refers to the defendant deciding to request a jury trial in Lowell Court or waiving his right to a jury trial and having his case heard by a district court judge. This decision is made by the defendant and defense attorney. At this time a defendant can still plead guilty if he chooses to. If a trial is requested the case is continued again for about two weeks to enable both defense and prosecution to arrange witnesses and evidence for court.

More on the courts next week.

Wilmington crime watch

by William E. Gable
Our way of life has changed rapidly since the early 1900's. No longer are there strong social bonds between neighbors as there were years ago. The front porch has disappeared and the family has moved its social activities to the back yard which is often behind a tall fence. In the citizens request for privacy he has had to pay a price. That price is often vandalism and house breaks.

Your neighbors are often your single best security device. In nation wide surveys, it has been shown that "neighborhoods in which people are truly concerned with each other and their mutual safety, have extremely low burglary rates." An effective crime prevention program successfully operating in many communities called "Neighborhood watch."

Neighborhood watch has helped restore the "front porch" to communities. It is bringing neighbors into contact with each other for a common purpose - to make homes and streets with each other for a common purpose - to make homes and streets more safe. It requires residents working side-by-side to make their neighborhood safe at a low cost, if any, and takes up very little time.

If you are interested in forming a neighborhood watch program, please take time to clip out the coupon below and mail it or take it to the Wilmington Police Dept. Adelaide St., Wilmington, Ma. 01887.
